SOAP TALK

Southfork continues to breed new fans

Larry Hagman (left) and Patrick Duffy

Who shot J.R.? Was it really all a dream for Bobby?

Viewers can rediscover brothers J.R. and Bobby Ewing (Larry Hagman, Patrick Duffy), and the beauty of Southfork ranch in the series "Dallas," which airs weekdays on Soapnet.

The cable network has brought back the popular show, which ran from 1978 to 1991. Hagman says, "You know, I can't tell you why the show was and still is so popular."

"I think everyone has one of these characters in their family. They've got a brother, father, uncle or cousin or something that they despise, but love, too. It's that whole love-hate relationship."

When "Dallas" was taping, there were rumors about unhappy relationships on the set, and trouble with the producers. Hagman says most of those stories weren't true. "Well, there was one year, when Leonard Katzman left the show for a year, that we had another producer come in who had other ideas on where the show should go, and I didn't agree with him. We had some go-arounds, then. He left the show after that year and Mr. Katzman came back."

Hagman keeps in close contact with some of his former co-stars. "I go hunting and fishing with Patrick Duffy three or four times a year. Linda Gray (Sue Ellen Ewing) was here at the house yesterday," Hagman says. "She and my wife are great friends, and she came up for coffee and to swim. Our families are very close. Sheree Wilson (April Ewing) is back in town, and I see her all the time.

We've all stayed a nice close family and friends."

Dear Candace: "Port Charles" is a wonderful daytime show that should have been considered for a one-hour time slot. The show is filled with great actors portraying terrific characters. I really wish ABC would reconsider canceling the show. Or at the very least, they could move some of the actors to "General Hospital" and continue their stories there. -Janice Lee, Wichita, Kan.

Dear Reader: There's no hope of "PC" staying on the air. Brian Frons, president of ABC Daytime, says many of the actors will move to other ABC shows.
